ABOUT DHRUBA CHAND HALDER COLLEGE

DHRUBA CHAND HALDER COLLEGE, at the heart of Dakshin Barasat in South 24 Parganas, West Bengal, was established on 23rd August, 1965, much to the delight of the people of the locality. The initial shape and size of the institution was enlarged gradually, making room for thousands of students from the hinterland of the Sundarbans, a large number of teachers and non-teaching staff. Starting with classes at Shibdas Acharya School, it moved to its present premises, with the help of a few generous and philanthropic persons of the locality. Today, there are twenty full -fledged departments, catering to thousands of students. The campus is large, with a vast playground, water bodies, trees and plants, and a number of buildings.
